Before Sweden intervenes in Israel - it should focus on what happenings in Sweden.

Sweden must decide whether it would like to be a fair broker in the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, or to support one side and deepen the conflict. An Open Letter to Secretary of State, Margot Wallström

By Sarah Haetzni Cohen

Hello there, Honorable Minister of Foreign Affairs of Sweden, Margot Wallström. I have read your open letter, which was published last weekend on Haaretz in Hebrew, in which you described the concern of your country while observing the Israeli-Palestinian conflict, and so I wanted to write you a few words.

My people are currently under murderous terrorist attacks. Murderous attacks that did not start in 1967, but rather began even before the establishment of Israel and continued thereafter. Even in times when Israel did not control at all Judea and Samaria, Islamic terror had hit us.

However, Honorable Minister, Israel had tried the peace, which had cost us a lot of blood. The Oslo Accords, that were supposed to bring peace and hope, actually brought rivers of blood to our streets. When our friends and relatives were murdered, they were named "victims of peace". At the Camp David Accords, Israel agreed to give up almost all of Judea and Samaria (a move you might define "brave", but most Israelis would call it as irresponsible) and yet the Palestinians refused. Not only do they refused to end the conflict, they also opened a murderous intifada that caused the murder over a thousand Israelis.

Last year, Israel released dozens of murderers from Israeli prisons, only for that Mahmoud Abbas, Palestinian Authority chairman, would agree to sit down with and negotiate. Those murderers who murdered mothers and fathers, children and Holocaust survivors, now breathe the air of freedom on the altar of the negotiations. The Palestinians, by the way, did not continue the negotiations after the release of terrorists.

Today, under the auspices of the Palestinian Authority, a network of anti-Semitic education system operates within the media and social networks. It also endorse wages for murderers serving time in Israeli prisons, by funds originating from the European governments, by the way. Honorable Minister, this is an Authority of terrorism - and terrorism must be fought.

Democratic Sweden is going astray.

With your permission, we will step from Israel to Sweden. Sweden of 2015 is a country with growing and rising number of immigrants, of which a significant percentage that desires either self-segregation or imposing its own values on the western Swedish society, by democratic means, of course. Another country has grown within Sweden - a fundamentalist Islamic state. In major cities and suburbs, Shariah law overrule and replace the state authority, and non-Muslim minorities are persecuted, while the Swedish government looks aside.

Sweden of 2015 is a country facing massive immigration wave that threatens its identity. Only a few days ago, your own State Department declared that Sweden is in danger of collapse. The absolute freedom granted by Sweden to immigration, that one you tend to preach us about, threatens to crumble in the inner parts of your country.

Sweden of 2015 is a country that suffers an increase of several hundred percent in cases of rape. According to statistics, one out of four women in the country is expected to undergo a violent rape in her lifetime. The vast majority of rapes are conducted by immigrants. Everybody knows that, but your government prefers to keep the culture of being "Politically Correct".
Sweden of 2015 do not impose a law, preventing citizens from joining ISIS. Recently it was proposed to let terrorists return to Sweden and help rehabilitate them by granting generous benefits. The same people who murdered children and abused women will receive the warm embrace of your government.

Sweden of 2015 is a country in which Jews are unwelcome in public administration, even when it comes to memorial events of the Holocaust. Jews were not invited to the ceremony for the "Kristallnacht" remembrance, due to the fact it was too dangerous for them. Sweden is unable to protect the human rights and security of its own country.

Sweden of 2015 is the first European nation to recognize a Palestinian state, unilaterally, yet continues to claim it is our ally. According to NGO Monitor Research Institute, Sweden endorse anti-Israel groups in millions of dollars. For example, the Palestinian "Tin" organization supports the right of return and publishes anti-Semitic cartoons, or the "Al Haq" organization that promotes a boycott and hire a general manager that is part of the Popular Front - which is defined by the EU as a terror organization. You, on the expense the Swedish taxpayer, fund organizations that directly hurts me.

Sweden must decide whether it would like to be a fair broker or take a side in the conflict, and deepen it further. Sweden's conduct turns a back to the public in Israel. Unless you have posted a similar article in a Palestinian newspaper, and not just in Israel?
Democratic and western Sweden is going astray, Honorable minister, so excuse me for putting your advices politely aside. And I also have a little advice for you: take care of Sweden before trying to fix other countries, who knows, maybe there's still hope.
